Industrial Tree Plantations and the Land Rush in China

Implications for Global Land Grabbing

Yunan Xu, International Institute of Social Studies, The Netherlands

Series: Routledge Studies in Global Land and Resource Grabbing

This book analyses the political and economic causes, mechanisms and impacts of the industrial tree plantation boom in China. Based on extensive primary data, this book concentrates on the political economy of the sector's expansion with a focus on the recent and dramatic agrarian transformation involving the land-labour nexus, the impact on villagers' livelihoods, the role of the state, and political reactions from below. The book questions the stereotypical portrayal of local communities as the excluded villager. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of land grabbing, rural development and agrarian transformations, as well as Chinese development.
